

Barn Conversion

The barn is proposed to be converted to more general use by pouring a concrete floor and finishing the upper level with a stairway. The barn is a good solid structure with a concrete foundation. Once heated in the winter by 45-degree water flowing from the springs, it is plumbed and takes advantage of geothermal heating. With these modifications, we believe the barn will be much more useful and helpful to achieve conservation and education purposes.

Photo 1--The exterior view of the barn.

Photo 2-Interior View where modifications will make the building more useful.